DENT & HIS OWN LAWYER.

The Doomed Priest Answers His Own Questions.

Father Francis Dent's suit against the Franciscan Order of the Most Holy Minor of Strict Observance, which was begun before Justice Cullen and a jury in Supreme Court, Brooklyn, this morning, brought a large crowd to the courtroom.

Father Dent sues to recover $50,000 damages or his alleged wrongful expulsion from the Order, and for his reinstatement as a priest of the Roman Catholic Church.

In 1890, during the trial of an action brought by Father Dent against Bishop Ryan, of Buffalo, in the Supreme Court, Father Anacletus D'Angelo, President of the Custodia of Buffalo, swore that Dent had been expelled, and produced a decree of the general order in Rome, signed by the Minister General, Father Dent alleges that this decree was fraudulent, and was contrary to the procedure of the Church.

The defense is that on Sept. 15, 1886, Father Dent was expelled for good and sufficient reasons; his expulsion was approved by Pope Leo and the Sacred College of the Propaganda at Rome.

Father Dent, who is conducting his own case, was the first witness to-day, putting the questions to himself in a formal manner.

He said he was a member of the Franciscan Order of the Most Holy Minor of Strict Observance, which order was founded early in the thirteenth century.

He told how he was initiated, and took the vows of Poverty, Chastity, and Obedience. He explained the rules governing the admission of candidates to the Order.

Questions and answers flowed from his lips so freely that some of the spectators thought the witness must have committed the whole matter to memory.

He also told what occurred at meetings which Col. George H. Biles claims were never held.

The trial will last several days.

SAYS WILDE BOKE HIS WORD.

Mrs. Beadle Binge & Suit Which May Deceive a Scandal.

Mrs. Emma L. Beadle, of 477 McDonough street, has begun a suit in the City Court, Brooklyn, which, when it comes to trial, will reveal a scandal of some importance.

Mrs. Beadle sues to compel John Wilde, her husband's employer, to make good his failure to care for a second mortgage of $2,000 on the house in which Mrs. Beadle lives.

Wilde is a member of a wholesale coffee house at 11 Dutch street, New York. He lives in a great style with his wife and two children.

About a year ago William L. Beadle, the husband of the plaintiff, brought suit for $50,000 damages against Wilde for the alienation of his wife's affections.

In the fall of 1892, Beadle caused the Beadles to secure the property 477 McDonough street, by taking two mortgages, one for $1,500 and the other for $1,000. Mrs. Beadle said Wilde agreed to keep his second mortgage when it became due.

Wilde met Mrs. Beadle many times, and after the arrangement was made about the mortgages, he became very friendly with Mrs. Beadle.

WITH 18,000 CHILDREN IN LINE

The Sunday Schools of Williamsburg Parade This Afternoon.

Lines of March Gayly Decorated for the Occasion.

Williamsburg was given over to the children to-day, and early in the morning the streets were filled with neatly dressed boys and girls, all waiting for the Sunday-school procession to start.

Anniversary Day is a holiday among the young church folks, and this year 18,000 children had signed their intention of marching in the parade of the Eastern District Sabbath-School Association, at 3:15 this afternoon.

Owing to the fact that many of the parades are of tender years, the line of march is short, being only along Bedford avenue, from the fountain to Flushing avenue.

The people along the route are to the children to-day, and early in the morning the streets were filled with neatly dressed boys and girls, all waiting for the Sunday-school procession to start.

Brave Policeman Feeney.

He Saves an Aged and Helpless Woman from Suffocation.

Brief but Exciting Fire in a Broome Street Flat.

There was an exciting fire this morning in the Florida flats at 362 Broome street.

It started about 9 o'clock in the room of Mrs. Braublot, in the first floor rear, and burned to the second story.

Twenty-four families live in the house. The first warning that they had there was a fire was when smoke poured up through the building in large quantities.

Much excitement ensued among the tenants, who rushed down the stairs into the street. The halls were narrow and dark, and the smoke was so thick that it was hard to find their way out.

The building is six stories high, and four families live on a floor. Women carrying children in their arms came down from the upper floors through the smoke. They were almost exhausted, and half choked by the time they reached the street. The police and firemen had to help them down.

When the cry of fire was raised some one ran from the building and gave the alarm from the box in front of Herman's furniture factory in Mott street, which brought the firemen.

But for the prompt action and bravery on the part of Policeman Patrick Feeney, of the Mulberry street station, the fire might have been attended with loss of life.

Feeney was one of the first in the building. He heard a woman's screams coming from upstairs.

The halls were so full of smoke that it was almost impossible to see. He took her into a neighbor's store, where he was called for.

The fire gave the firemen a little trouble. The building is 121 feet deep and the halls so narrow that it was hard to get through the flames, which were way in the rear.

About $1500 damage was done. Police Captain Feeney will probably make a report of Policeman Feeney's bravery to the Board of Police.
